

Husband abuse not uncommon

Possibly no other issue related to family violence has received so much media attention at the debate over the prevalence and seriousness of husband abuse.

It is argued that husband abuse is not uncommon and may even occur as frequently as wife abuse. However, it is suggested that we know less about this form of violence because men, in an attempt to live up to common myths about men's strengths and their role as head of the family (and also to protect their attachments to their children), tend to ignore the violence, dismiss it, or treat it with selective inattention.

Some research shows that husband abuse exists, but it is less common than is wife abuse. Proponents of this view argue that while undoubtedly there are men who are assaulted by their wives, husband abuse is far less frequent than wife abuse.

Other research claims that it is a gross error to classify spousal violence as a women's issue rather than a human issue. As a human problem it reinforces awareness that the problem should be everyone's concern and that everyone needs to be involved to eradicate the problem. This view argues that by focusing only on wife abuse, we are discriminating against men and abandoning them to their victimization.

IT'S OK TO BE ANGRY

It's okay to feel angry. Everyone gets mad from time to time... as long as you don't hurt anyone. Next time you're angry, instead of hitting or calling people names, follow these five A..N..G..E..R steps.

1. ADMIT to yourself you're angry. Aaaaaggggh! Notice the tell-tale signs of anger. Are you...

- Feeling shut down, numb? Depressed, frustrated?
- Feeling tense in your neck, hands or face?
- Feeling hot in your ears?
- Breathing harder? Shouting?

Over the next week, notice how you feel when you get angry and add your own signs of anger to this list.

2. NEUTRALIZE YOURSELF! Get cool. Get calm.

- Take a deep breath. And another. It's a good way to get rid of hot air.

- Be aware of the fact that you are angry and that is OK.

Now notice how you feel like responding and work at changing any of those responses that will hurt you or someone else.]

- Keep your hands in your pockets. Shaking your fists and waving your hands speeds up your circulation. You can't hit anyone when your hands are in your pockets.

- Try not to say something you'll regret later.

3. GET OUT of the situation. Take time out. Simply tell the other person "I want to take time out." Only you can be in control of how you behave with your angry feelings. We can't control our emotions, but we can control our responses to those emotions.

Do:

- Go for a walk or run.
- Talk to a friend, a parent, a counsellor or peer support member.
- Play the guitar or piano.
- Write in your journal or diary.
- Picture a river that flows down to the sea. Put your angry thoughts on the river and let them float away.
- Practice calming self-talk.

Don't:

- Hang on to angry thoughts or waste time building a case.
- Don't drink or do drugs.

4. EXAMINE your anger. Remind yourself you have a right to be angry. It's how you handle it that's important. Try to find out why you are angry. Ask yourself:

- Am I really angry at myself or someone else? Am I taking it out on the person closest to me?
- Am I really feeling something else, like hurt, afraid, sad, embarrassed or insecure?
- Am I letting unresolved anger from past issues get in the way?

5. RETURN and get REAL. Tell the other person how you REALLY feel.

- "I feel sad when you say things like that." "I feel hurt." "I feel scared I'll lose you."

- Do not point fingers by using "you" language.

- Stick to the facts, not put-downs or attacks.

- Don't blame the other person or use name calling.

You are responsible for your anger. You alone choose how you feel and act. Remember:

Admit you're angry. Neutralize. Get calm. Get cool.

Get out of the situation. Examine your anger.

Return and get Real.

Kalyna Country on the move

By Jars Balan

Kalyna Country Ecomuseum

The Kalyna Country Ecomuseum Trust Society has begun to actively implement both its long-term development strategy and aspects of its regional marketing plan. Having successfully completed the initial organizational phase of its endeavors, the volunteer association, with assistance from various government agencies and supporting institutions, has started to tackle several key tasks on the road to the ecomuseum's full realization.

At a well-attended annual meeting held in Smoky Lake on June 21, 1994, stock was taken of the society's achievements in the previous two years of its existence, and plans were formulated for the transitional period ahead. Several new members joined the board of directors, replacing departing members (notable among the latter was Treasurer Lillian Semeniuk, who moved to Vancouver), though for the largest part the core initiative group remained intact. The continued commitment of board stalwarts was a strong vote of confidence in the short-and long-term viability of the ambitious undertaking represented by Kalyna Country.

At a subsequent meeting held at the Fort George / Buckingham House Interpretive Centre near Elk Point, a new executive was struck to provide leadership for the coming year. Micheal Senych of Thorhild replaced Marjorie Robinson as the chairman of the board, the latter having served most capably in this capacity during the Ecomuseum's inaugural two years. Other executive members include Albin Lukawiecki (Holden), Jan Carrol (Lamont), Lou Suderman (Bruderheim), John Hawrelko (Redwater) and John T. Malysh (Vilna).

A prime focus for the society in 1994-1995 will be the packaging and vigorous promotion of the Kalyna Country region within and outside of Alberta. Until now, efforts have been concentrated on raising public awareness of the ecomuseum inside the Kalyna Country district, so as to educate local residents about the tourist potential of their communities. Although this will proceed unabated, steps are also being taken to more broadly publicize the establishment of Kalyna Country through pamphlets, displays and media kits. Once again, the society will be hosting a booth in the Tourism Supermarket at the Edmonton Home and Garden Show in April 1995, and a professionally designed four-color lure brochure is now ready for printing.

In addition to the above, the ecomuseum will also be pursuing several research and educational projects designed to encourage the conservation of Kalyna Country's rich and diverse heritage. A comprehensive interpretive endeavor is being planned for the north Victoria Trail from Vinca Bridge to the Victoria Settlement, and a booklet is being prepared on the Willingdon - area origins of the celebrated Ukrainian Canadian artist William Kurelek. Funding is now being sought for a series of maps relating to the Cree history of East Central Alberta, and other initiatives have been taken in the realm of preserving and advertising the natural beauty of the region.

A major goal of the new executive is to secure funds for an ecomuseum administration, since work on Kalyna Country has now outstripped what can be accomplished with volunteer labor alone. To this end, information packets are being prepared for distribution among politicians at all levels of government, and for private sector institutions that are to be approached for sponsorship. In short, the 1994-95 Board of Directors has much to keep it occupied for the duration of its term of office.

The Family Forum

By Jim MacLellan

Religion is good for your health and happiness. This statement was taken from a recent article of Focus on the Family magazine. Now I would be concerned that some readers might just dismiss this statement as a partisan idea from a parson, except that the data is secular-based studies, not religious propaganda.

For instance, David Larson published a report in the American Journal of Psychiatry based on his experience of 10 years at the National Institute of Health (USA) and 12 years of psychiatric literature. His report concluded that 90 % of the studies supported the view that religion benefits mental health.

"Research studies indicate that divorce... puts people at much higher risk for both psychiatric and physical disease..."

says Larson.

In review of pre-marital activity, researchers Larson and Mary Ann Mayo said, "It was those with the least sexual experience who were more likely to report their marriage was always warm and supportive."

Some people react negatively to the thought of being "religious." The fact of the matter is that everyone is religious. Your religion is simply your way of life. When I refer to religion in this article I am speaking of the Judeo-Christian religion as evidenced in the Christian Bible. The facts are in. Your religion will have a profound effect upon your life, your marriage and your family. The issue isn't religion, or no religion. The issue is: which religion - which way of life will you follow. What do you think?

Extravaganza plans are exciting

An exciting evening of fun-filled activities for the whole family is in store for Elk Point on Friday, December 2 when the Elk Point Chamber of Commerce hosts their annual Christmas Extravaganza.

Two meetings of the planning committee have brought forth numerous ideas for the event.

Prizes of $300, $200 and $100 in Elk Point Bucks, redeemable for merchandise or services at any of the participating merchants, will once again be offered. Shoppers will receive a draw slip when they make a purchase during the Extravaganza at any of those businesses, and will be eligible for in-store draws at that business as well as for the grand prize draws, slated for 11 p.m.

This year's children's contest will take the form of a Christmas stocking designing spree. Stocking outlines will be available at several locations earlier that week, which can be decorated any way the child pleases, and then returned to the designated businesses. Names of children who hand in the completed stockings will be entered for prize draws in each of three age groups: 4 to 6 years, 7 to 9 years, and 10 to 12 years, with a draw time of 7 p.m.

Activities are expected to centre around the outdoor skating rink now being constructed at 50th Avenue and 50th Street by local volunteers. A roaring bonfire, a visit from Santa, Christmas music and hot chocolate are also on the agenda, and the committee is also hoping to have horse drawn hayrides, with several stops around town.

Elk Point Farmers Market will once again be part of the Extravaganza, and will be open in the United Church Hall from 12 noon until 9 p.m.

Downtown businesses are being encouraged to decorate and light up their premises for the event, which will turn downtown Elk Point into a hubbub of family-style activity. Plan now to be part of the fun!

Adoption Feature

Special needs children await adoption

Jackie and Melissa are typical of many young girls these days. Jackie is nine years old and enjoys being in Grade 3. Melissa is eight years old and loves being in Brownies. Jackie and Melissa are also sisters. What does set them apart from other children, though, is that they are special needs children who are waiting to be adopted. In fact, Jackie and Melissa are two of fifty special needs children for whom Alberta Family and Social Services is trying to find homes.

At the moment, Jackie and Melissa are living in a foster home. They both experienced serious neglect before they came into government care, and are in therapy struggling to deal with their difficult past.

This year's Adoption Week is November 20 to 26. The week is set aside to highlight the number of children awaiting adoption, as well as the successes and rewards enjoyed by adoptive families. In 1993, Alberta Family and Social Services found homes for 127 special needs children.

Christopher is a two-year-old boy with Down's Syndrome. He was placed into a home in February of this year and is in the process of being adopted. The Alberta Family and Social Services worker who has been dealing with his case says, "You can see a real difference in Christopher. He has doubled in weight since February, is walking now and has developed his own sign language to communicate. These kids can sense that they are in a permanent situation. His is part of a family now."

Nine-year-old Rebecca has become a more confident child since she was adopted this summer. She has had a difficult life, a history of abuse and neglect. A secure, loving home has made a remarkable difference to Rebecca. The Alberta Family and Social Services worker who dealt with her case says, "Rebecca has absolutely blossomed in her new home! Her adoptive family capitalizes on her strengths and she now gets 'happy face' awards at school for outstanding work and a good attitude."

Rebecca is one of many special needs children who also stay in contact with a birth mother and / or father. It is important for Rebecca to have contact with her birth mother.

Shawn is a blond-haired, blue-eyed seven-year-old who was recently adopted. Shawn has an eating disorder and also suffers from serious emotional neglect. His adoptive family is extremely supportive of his needs and committed to building on his strengths. A worker familiar with his case says, "Shawn's sense of permanency with his adoptive family has allowed him to become an outgoing and lovable child."

Adopting a special needs child can be a difficult decision. As one worker puts it, "These children can present a real challenge, but in my experience, they can also bring real joy to a family when they feel secure and loved."

NEAR offers support for adoptive families

"There are no unwanted children... just unfound parents."

This is the slogan of North East Adoption Resources Foundation's ongoing recruitment program, entitled "One Community, One Child."

North East Adoption Resources Foundation, or NEAR, is a non-profit organization of families who have or who are adopting special needs children. NEAR's Executive Director Darlene Kozicky says that most children in foster care or awaiting adoption have special needs, due to some form of abuse or neglect in their background. The ongoing recruitment program ties in with the need to provide these children with healthy homes, and thus break the circle of abuse.

NEAR consists of a group of adoptive parents and social workers who help spread the word that children are available for adoption. The common perception that no children are available for adoption stems from the fact that often the only available children one hears about are those from other countries, whose plight is shown on television and in magazines. Alberta's own children don't get that kind of exposure, Ms Kozicky says, "because we can't afford to put blurbs on TV." She praised the efforts of CFRN Television, with their donation of air time for a weekly segment on "Wednesday's Child," and says one of her goals is to get a similar segment on Lloydminster television and "get the word across that there are kids out here who need homes."

In the meantime, NEAR's recruitment program consists of mall displays, which Ms Kozicky says "get good response." Adoptions in the Medley, Grand Centre and Bonnyville areas "are going strong" since the recruitment program in those areas last year. "And now we've got a couple of people in the Fort McMurray area to do recruitment," she enthused. She herself will be participating in mall displays in Vermilion and Lloydminster this week.

"If we can get awareness and information out to the public, it goes so good. People don't know there are kids out there waiting for homes."

The year-long recruitment program, which started in September, is being funded by a grant from the office of the Prevention of Family Violence.

When she goes out to the mall displays, Ms Kozicky will have her own first-hand knowledge to draw from. She and husband Calvin have had a young man named Jesse in their home for four years now, and have found the experience has "been really positive. We have had a lot of community and extended family support, which are really important, and NEAR has been really supportive as well."

Ms Kozicky's involvement with NEAR dates back to the training she and her husband took prior to Jesse's adoption. About six months after the placement, she was called to ask if she would volunteer with the Foundation, "and all this volunteer work led to me becoming the Executive Director," she said.

Loving, stable homes are needed for children who have been stripped of close, loving, normal family relationships. "What they need is a permanent home, and to know that it's forever... that they will receive unconditional love, even when they tear your heart apart."

A twelve-year-old foster child is quoted in NEAR's recruitment booklet as saying, "I want to be adopted. I want a family of my own. I want to feel like I belong someplace. I want to stop moving around and I want to feel secure." There are many other youngsters out there whose dearest wish is very much the same.

Further information on adoption can be obtained from North East Adoption Resources, General Delivery, Elk Point, AB TOA 1A0, or by phoning 724-2216.

There are no unwanted children ... just unfound parents

This is a call for your help.

Children have only one shot at childhood.

Without a permanent foundation on which to base their growth, they are left alone to shape their lives. In this rapidly changing world, so full of hard decisions, this is an insurmountable task.

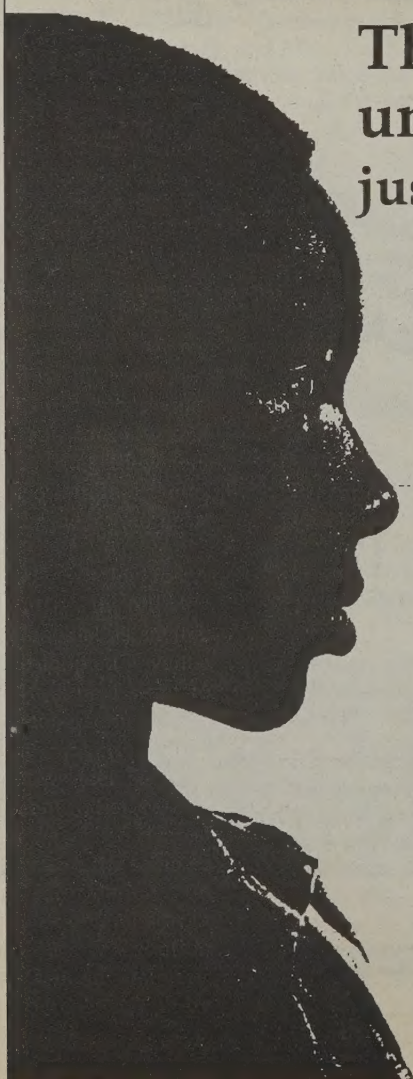

"One Community, One Child" is a program directed toward increasing the awareness of our kids in care and decreasing the misconceptions surrounding adoption. At present, there is a lack of adoptive parents in Alberta's northeast region.

Through contract with community churches and organizations, we hope to maximize the scope of prospective parents available. Our goal is to place information in the hands of the local public regarding special needs adoption or simply adoption in general.

We can provide you with a contact to the North East Adoption Resources (N.E.A.R.) or, if you desire, arrange a contact with the Alberta department of Family and Social Services. We provide Parent Preparation Training; a series of informative sessions on special needs adoption. We also have an extensive library of adoption literature and audio cassettes.

All children have the right to be a member of a permanent family.

Students turn detective

Students of F. G. Miller High School turned detective last week as they pored over the clues surrounding Rigor Mortis in Row Six, a presentation of the Alberta Science Foundation aimed at interesting teens and adults in forensic science.

Each class entered the school's Lab 12 to find a corpus delicti tastefully laid out in a body bag on a table roped off with yellow police line tape. Station 1, 'The Scene of the Crime,' came equipped with the contents of the late Brad Larsen's pockets - a prescription bottle, his wallet, and a crumpled prescription, as well as a police statement for the investigators to peruse.

From there they went to Lab 2, where they analyzed the handwriting on the prescription, in the victim's mother's daybook, and on a letter she had signed.

Lab 3 had a display of documents, including the mother's will, and the electrostatic detection impression of a blank prescription pad found in the victim's stepfather's briefcase. The investigators were told that the will was also found in the briefcase.

The Medical Examiner's Office was the scene of Lab 4. There, cause of death was determined to be a poisonous plant, mounted specimens of which were on display.

The tension mounted at Lab

5, where fingerprints of each suspect were shown, along with the latent fingerprint found on the lid of the prescription bottle in the victim's pocket.

Lab 6 was entitled 'Impressions,' and included such evidence as footprints and a baseball cap found in the victim's home, and letters in a research file.

The final lab dealt with ink analysis, and clearly showed what kind of pen the mysterious prescription was written with.

The amateur detectives took all this information into consideration as they mulled over the motives, means and opportunity each of the five suspects:

the stepfather, Brad's science teacher (who was also the stepfather's girlfriend), Brad's own present and former girlfriends, and his wrestling rival.

Who dun it? That's what we'd all like to know. Stay tuned for the final results of the investigation!

LOOKING FOR CLUES - in the murder of Brad Larsen were Monty Kenyon and Conne Henderson, shown here comparing the handwriting in Brad's mother's daybook with that on a prescription found in the dead athlete's pocket after his untimely demise in row 6 at the movie theatre.

Remembrance Day at F.G. Miller

November 10 was a day of reflection at F. G. Miller High School, with a special assembly devoted to remembering Canada's war dead.

Narrators Tammy Sieben and Sheana Kinneberg led a tribute to both the Canadians who fought in the battle fields and those who fought at home. Following two minutes of silence, the assembly saw an original play entitled "Drafted," which starred Kristin Holthe as the 19-year-old who was drafted in the midst of World War II.

The first of four scenes, in which he was faced with the grim task of telling his parents and fiancée he was going to war, was followed by the recitation of a stirring poem, "The Dove," by Kelly Oszust and Lee Kadutski. In Scene 2, he reluctantly told his fiancée, who asked "What about the wedding?" Alas, there was only time for an anguished farewell kiss. Scene 3 was on the battlefield, as the soldier told his mates about his fiancée back in Elk Point, seconds before a fierce and deadly battle erupted.

Tyson Warawa recited "In Flanders Fields" before the final scene, in which the parents and fiancée receive the tragic news of their loved one's death in battle. Craig Lee starred as the father, with Armina Kinjerski as the mother and Denise Adkins as the fiancée.

German Exchange II

By Kelly Oszust

F. G. Miller High School

Jana Linke is another exchange student who is attending F. G. Miller High School. She has moved around quite a bit since she has been in Canada. Jana first lived with the Ramers, then with the Hellquists, and for the rest of her stay in Canada, she will be living with the Andersons.

Jana comes from Bremen, which is in Germany. There are four children in her family, Jana being the oldest, at 16.

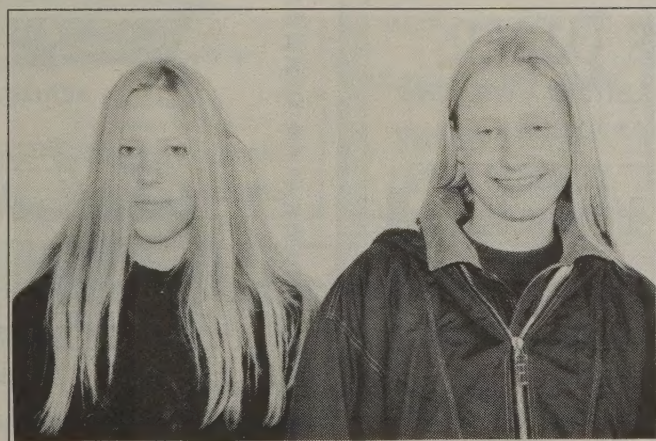

In Germany, Jana attends school at Gymnasium am Wall, which is much larger than F. G. Miller. But she likes our school because everyone knows everyone else.

Jana likes Canada, and she says that it is quite different than Germany because of the culture, the people and the countryside. One of her most favorite things about Canada is the Dairy Queen in St. Paul. She loves their Blizzards.

unlike the other two exchange students, Ilona Schade and Matheiu Behrer, Jana will be living in our community for the whole school year.

Frog Lake School takes time to remember

By Ruth Purdy

On Thursday, November 10, the Frog Lake School held a special Remembrance ceremony involving students and staff. Master of Ceremonies Jim Purdy opened the ceremony with the poem "Grandpa's Flower," a touching rendition of a young girl's perspective of her grandfather's war and the meaning of the poppy.

Frog Lake School Principal Karen Jorritsma addressed the audience on how each of us today has to fight our own wars of prejudice, poverty and drug abuse.

The Grade Two class led the assembly in the singing of our national anthem, O Canada, prior to entertaining the audience with a lively Remembrance Day Rap session, accompanied by the Grade One class.

Grade Six student Theodore Quinney recited "In Flanders Fields," followed by a variety of presentations by the Elementary School students, including a tribute of remembrance to the Native Mosoms (grandfathers) of Alberta who served in the war.

The Grade Five class read the old favorite, "Why Wear A Poppy?" The Grade Six students burned candles in remembrance of the soldiers who sacrificed their lives, while the award winning poem, "So We Could Be Free," written by Elk Point student James Purdy, was read.

These presentations were followed by special guest speaker Mr. Lawrence Quinney, a veteran of World War II, who addressed the assembly speaking of his experiences during the war. He commended the Frog Lake students for their preparation in the Remembrance ceremony and stated his desire that Canada would remain free from war in the future. Mr. Quinney's address was followed by a one minute tribute of silent remembrance.

The program concluded with a sound and light show of the popular "Sky Pilot," enacted by the Grade Eight class under the technical expertise and supervision of Mr. Rick Pilisko.

A special thanks is extended to all the students and staff who participated and assisted in the success of the school's Remembrance Ceremony.

FROM THE HACK

Elk Point Curling Club

Another curling season is now underway. The Mixed League started on Tuesday, November 15, with the Men's following on Wednesday the 16th. There is still room for one or two Men's teams, if anyone is interested.

The ice making talents of Jack 'The Iceman' White have been retained for another season. New Marko hacks have been installed and modern Curlex rock handles are on order.

The first major event on this year's calendar is the Town and Country Bonspiel, also known as the 'Hog Spiel' because of its unique first prize of four hogs, cut and wrapped to the winners' specifications. This bonspiel is also unique in that it features competition between men's, mixed and ladies' rinks. The Hog Spiel has been moved up this year to November 25, 26 and 27. Entries for the Hog Spiel close on November 23 at (p.m. so get your team together for this fun event. To enter, call the rink at 724-3671, Dave at 724-4200 or Steve at 724-4065.

What's News at the Library?

Still more new books!

By Michele Duczek
Librarian

No news but still more new books:

What Your Mother Couldn't Tell You & Your Father Didn't Know by John Gray continues the work with relationships Gray began with his bestselling Men are from Mars, Women are from Venus. Once again he explores the differences between men and women with an eye to improving communication within relationships.

Janet Dailey's latest novel is The Proud and the Free. She returns to the historical novel with a tumultuous family saga. Dailey combines factual history with the story of the Gordon family, a proud Southern family in pre-Civil War Georgia that experienced great changes and hardships because of their Cherokee blood.

A Tangled Web by Judith Michael is the sequel to the best-selling Deceptions. In the first novel, twin sisters change places. When one is killed, the other decides to assume her sister's place permanently. In the sequel, a friend swears to have seen the dead twin in Europe which opens up a whole world of intrigue and heartbreak.

Charles Gaines is an American writer who originally hails from Alabama. In 1990 he and his wife bought some undeveloped land on the Northeast coast of Nova Scotia. They decided to build a cabin on the land and enlisted their children to help. A Family Place is the story of the building of the cabin and about the Gaines family and about the community. It is also about building more than a house, about building a place for family.

LIBRARY CALENDAR:

Pre-Christmas activities are already underway at Heritage Lodge

Tracy Kjenner

Elk Point Heritage Lodge

The Pre-Christmas Tea, Bazaar and Bake Sale which was held Saturday, November 5 at Elk Point Heritage Lodge went very well. Many residents and their family members and friends donated various craft and baking items for the sale, and to these people, we are very thankful. The tables were full of interesting and delicious items.

In speaking of delicious things, thanks go out to the ladies involved in preparing the wonderful lunch. The assortment was astounding!

Many others were involved in setting up tables, pricing and selling items, serving coffee, and cleaning up after the sale. Your assistance was greatly appreciated, and the day went very smoothly thanks to you.

For all those who so kindly supported the fundraiser, thank you.

With the Tea, Bazaar and Bake Sale now over, other pre-Christmas activities will soon be getting underway, and decorating for the joyous season is the next major project to be undertaken.

Catch a bit of the Christmas spirit - there really aren't that many days left until December 25 is here.

Vegreville wins Zone

Vegreville Composite High School boys went undefeated through Saturday's Zone 7 volleyball playdowns in Elk Point. Coach Liz Melnyk said the win "just feels great. It was an outstanding team effort. What I enjoyed most about the matches was that they were close to about 7 points then we broke away from the opposition]. They're peaking out at the right time, these guys."

Close was definitely the word for the final match-up, which pitted Vegreville against Two Hills. In both games, Vegreville hit the scoreboard first, but the teams were seemingly well-matched as the score seesawed to about 7- or 8-all. Then Vegreville appeared to suddenly find another gear and walk away, to a 15-8 win in the first and a 15-9 win in the second.

Two Hills, who received the silver medals, had five wins out of six games in the round robin competition, and defeated Heinsburg in the semi-final. Vegreville downed Notre Dame two games straight in semi final action.

Heinsburg came into the semi-final with four round robin wins, and received the bronze medals for third place overall.

ZONE WINNERS - Vegreville Composite High School boys defeated Two Hills Tigers hands-down at Saturday's Zone play-offs in Elk Point. They went undefeated through round-robin action and semi-finals to take a berth in the final game.

Heinsburg Eagles stun Stingers in County Cup

By Bruce Campbell
St. Paul Journal

The Mallaig Stingers-Heinsburg Eagles final in the St. Paul Athletic Association volleyball finals turned out to be something like the Calgary Stampeders-B.C. Lions CFL Western final.

The team that supposedly didn't have a chance wound up winning.

The Heinsburg Eagles won their second County Cup in four years by downing the Stingers 5-15, 15-12, 15-11 Wednesday at Kihew Asinny Education Centre.

The Stingers had blown out the competition going into the finals. They had gone through the round-robin undefeated and had trounced Frog Lake in the semifinals. The Stingers had clobbered Heinsburg 15-5, 15-6 in the round robin.

"Mallaig was expected to win," Eagles' coach Parrish Tung said. "When we made it close in the second game, I think the pressure might have gotten to them. They might have been expecting to win in a walk over."

The Eagles stunned the Stingers with a 15-12 victory in the second game.

"Our defense played really well," Tung said. "We really dug up a lot of balls."

The Eagles and the Stingers exchanged the lead several times in the third game. But the Eagles took the lead for good at 10-9 on way to the 15-11 victory.

"Nine times out of 10, they'd have beaten us," Tung said. "Mallaig is the best team in the county and they'll do very good at provincials."

Mallaig's loss had their coach, Ian MacGillivray at a loss for words.

"I'm still trying to figure out what happened," he said. "We hit a lot of balls out-of-bounds. We just weren't hitting like we usually do."

Heinsburg Eagles "fourtunate" at County Cup

By Bruce Campbell
St. Paul Journal

When you think of sports dynasties, certain teams just automatically come to mind. The Edmonton Eskimos and the Montreal Canadiens of the 1970s, the Islanders of the 1980s, the Yankees of the fifties and the Heinsburg Eagles girls' volleyball team of the 1990s.

The Eagles won their fourth consecutive St. Paul Athletic Association championship by downing the Ecole Mallaig Stingers 2-1 (15-7, 10-15, 15-5) at Mallaig, Wednesday.

Heinsburg got to the finals the hard way. They advanced to the semifinals by beating the first-seed Regional Saints 15-7 in a one-game sudden-death playoff.

They advanced to the finals by beating the Vilna Lancers 10-15, 8-15, 2-15.

Mallaig finished first in their pool and then advanced to the finals by beating Elk Point in the semifinals 15-7, 17-16.

Heinsburg appeared to be coasting to the championship as they whipped Mallaig 15-7 in the opening game in the finals. The Eagles were led by the hitting of Denise Bendixen and the setting of Glenna Dion.

Mallaig battled back to win the second game 15-10.

Heinsburg won the championship by beating Mallaig 15-5 in third and final game.

Eagles' setter Glenna Dion set a SPAA record by winning her fourth-straight County Cup. It's a record which will never be broken — Alberta Athletics will be restricting students to three years of eligibility next year.

The Heinsburg Eagles will be making another trip to the 1A girls volleyball provincials as they beat St. Jerome from Vermilion in the North East Alberta Zones Saturday in Andrew.

Elks scorched by Comets

Elk Point Elks had about the same luck as the Calgary Stampeders this weekend - all bad.

They were first on the scoreboard during Friday night's visit to Marwayne, with a goal from Jeff Buck, assisted by Dwayne Karbaszewski, just after the 8 minute mark of the first period. The Comets had it tied up by the end of the period, and increased that lead by three more goals before Cory Laboucane scored the Elks' second, off assists by Allan Loughran and Jon Olson, with 38 seconds left on the second period clock. Marwayne added two more before the final shot from the Elks, which came 5 minutes and 48 seconds into the final period, scored by Karbaszewski off an assist by Derek Keller.

The Comets continued their scorching pace in the balance of the game, ending up with a 10-3 win.

What the Elks need now is fan support. Make sure to be on hand Friday at 8:30 when they take on Cold Lake at the A. G. Ross Arena.
